

Conversations That Challenge Conventional Thinking

Podcast Guest | Executive Coach | Author | 2x TEDx Speaker

Dr. Mitchell Levy is a 2x TEDx speaker, executive coach, former Chairman of a NASDAQ-listed company, and author of Executive Abundance.

Dr. Mitchell combines boardroom leadership, doctoral research, executive coaching, and decades of executive experience to challenge conventional thinking with practical frameworks leaders can apply immediately. His conversations explore leadership, business, AI, credibility, and how today's decisions shape tomorrow's success.

Listeners leave with new questions, practical frameworks, and ideas that continue shaping their thinking long after the conversation ends.

Conversations That Challenge Conventional Thinking	Questions That Spark Memorable Conversations
- Why achievement and fulfillment aren't always the same thing, and what it takes to create both. - How clarity opens the door and credibility keeps it open. - Creating extraordinary outcomes without sacrificing the people who make them possible. - How AI is changing the future, and why our uniquely human qualities matter more than ever. - Executive Abundance, a practical framework for making better decisions under short-term pressure.	- What if the biggest threat to your future isn't AI, but the decisions you're making today? - Are we becoming more successful, or just better at hiding what success is costing us? - What if our pursuit of short-term success is making us less humane? - What if the greatest risk isn't failure, but succeeding at the wrong things? - Could the leadership advice we've accepted for decades actually be making us worse leaders?

What Your Audience Will Gain

- Better questions for making difficult decisions.
- A new way to think about success, credibility, and long-term value.
- Actionable ideas they can use immediately.
